DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 9/25/2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Regarding claim 1-8, applicant argues the amendment to claim 1 will overcome the prior art as cited, however the Examiner disagrees. Although the applicant amended claim 1 to read to only consists of the specific bit sequence of 100 101 or 010 101, the reference still reads on the limitation claimed with the bit sequences. Further, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art that the list of possible bit sequences is well known and covers the metes and bounds of specific bit sequences. The previous office action is reiterated for the applicant's convenience.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Jung et al. US 2004/0109400 A1.

Regarding claim 1, Jung et al. teach a record carrier (1000 of Fig. 4, [0040]) comprising synchronization patterns for identifying blocks of information, said synchronization patterns comprising a part for distinguishing one such synchronization pattern from another such synchronization pattern, characterized in that the part for distinguishing the synchronization patterns consists only of the bit sequence 100 101 or of the bit sequence 010 101 ([0030], Table 1 Sync No. 6 and 9).

Regarding claim 2, Jung et al. teach a record carrier according to claim 1, characterized in that the synchronization pattern comprising a part for distinguishing the synchronization patterns consisting only of the bit sequence 100 101 or of the bit sequence 010 101, is directly followed by a bit sequence not violating the Repeated Minimum Transition Runlength constraint ([0030] the RLL(1,7) prevents the violation of the Repeated Minimum Transition Runlength constraint).

Regarding claim 3, Jung et al. teach a record carrier according to claim 2, characterized in that the synchronization pattern comprising a part for distinguishing the synchronization patterns consisting only of the bit sequence 100 101 or of the bit sequence 010 101, is directly followed by any 8 bit data bit sequence except the sequence 01 11 01 11 ([0030] the RLL(1,7) would not allow the violation of the Repeated Minimum Transition Runlength and not allow the data bit sequence of 01110111 as it would cause a violation of the constraints)

Regarding claim 4, Jung et al. teach a record carrier comprising synchronization patterns for identifying blocks of information, said synchronization patterns comprising a part for distinguishing one such synchronization pattern from another such synchronization pattern, characterized in that the part for distinguishing the synchronization patterns consists only of the bit sequence 101 001, or the bit sequence 010 100, or the bit sequence 100 100 ([0030] Table 1 Sync No. 10).

Regarding claim 5, the limitations have been analyzed and rejected with the reasons given as set forth in claim 1 above.

Regarding claim 6, the limitations have been analyzed and rejected with the reasons given as set forth in claim 4 above.

Regarding claim 7, the limitations have been analyzed and rejected with the reasons given as set forth in claim 1 above.

Regarding claim 8, the limitations have been analyzed and rejected with the reasons given as set forth in claim 4 above.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
